Purpose Statement

The Inclusion Poster Project at East Stroudsburg University is a student art-and-design exhibit that aims to foster dialogue about how our scholarly community can promote inclusion and diversity. This innovative project empowers students to model civil dialogue, spark courageous conversations, and create a campus without walls. ESU is one of the most diverse schools in Pennsylvania's State System of Higher Education. The Project challenges undergraduates to work collaboratively to engage the cultural, social, and educational differences that make our campus unique.

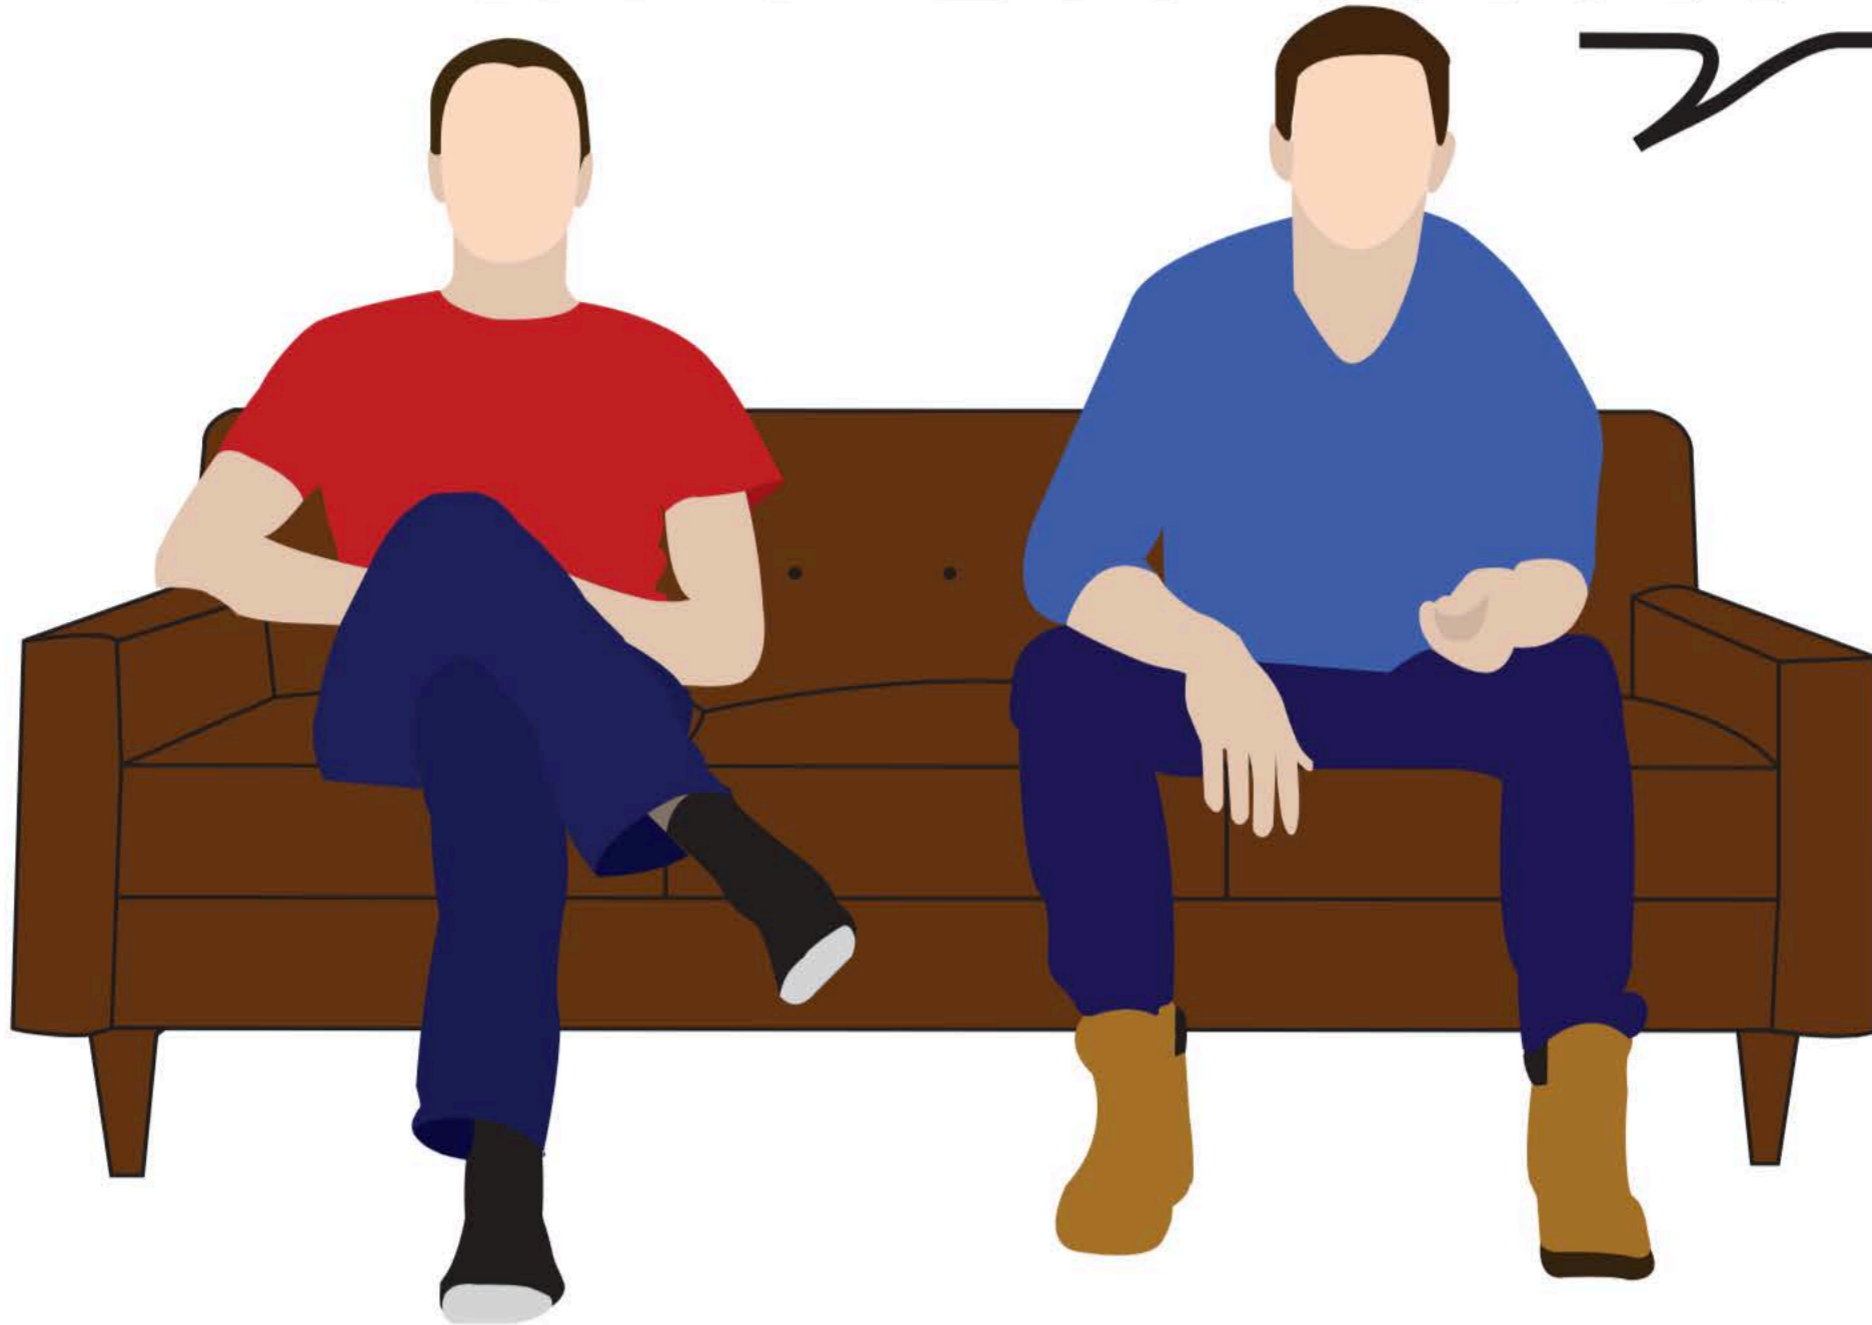

Consistent with ESU's values of intellectual integrity, freedom of expression, good citizenship, and accountability, students studied inclusion as a concept in academic literature, inventoried campus spaces from a first-person perspective, and co-designed images and messages that would contribute to inclusive excellence on our campus. The project, now in its second year, is a cross-disciplinary collaboration between students in Philosophy 340: Race, Gender and Culture (taught by Professor T Storm Heter) and students in Art 220: Graphic Design (taught by Professor David Mazure). The Inclusion Poster Project is co-sponsored by the Office of the Provost and the Diversity and Inclusion Committee.

The Inclusion Poster Project, is an initiative that is reflective of the opinions and views of the students who created this work. This poster does not necessarily portray the views of the University or its administration. However, it is important that the student voice be heard in this process. East Stroudsburg University supports the Inclusion Poster Project and its ability to offer students the right to express their artistic freedom.

An illustration featuring five diverse individuals. In the background, three people stand: a woman with blonde hair in a rainbow-colored shirt, a man with dreadlocks in a green shirt, and a woman in a blue hijab and dark blue dress. In the foreground, two people are shown in profile: a man with brown hair on the left and a woman with brown hair on the right. Between them is a large, stylized head of a man with a red cap and a thick black beard. The text "Do you belong here?" is overlaid in the center in a bold, red font with a white outline.

Why do you wear v-neck shirts? Your boobs are too big. I paid for my water through self checkout and the white lady working the monitor called the cops on me because she thought I stole it. You're pretty for a black girl. I've never dated a black girl before. My manager asked me if my hair was real or not. I then got sent home for yelling at him for asking that.

Does this happen to men, too?

I had rumors spread about me and my coworker being gay together by my male manager. I was at a bar with my boyfriend and a random man told him that he had to put a handle on me. Men have asked me where my wedding ring is at. My manager told me he liked watching me walk away as I went up the stairs and asked me when I was taking him on a date. I was called a terrorist in middle school because I was Muslim and my dad was going to blow up the school. Do you have any fur down there or do you shave completely? I was told, 'may your dot head daddy suck a cock and like a fuck.' My boyfriend hit me, apologized and then wanted me to apologize for my behavior. I was called an asshole for telling a man he was too old to hit on me. I was out with my brother and his friends, and his one friend grabbed my ass. My manager would not help me change a keg unless I told him it's a man's world. My boyfriend told me that I had the nicest legs of any girl that he has dated and then in the same breath told me my stomach needed work. While I was at work, a customer slapped my ass and then got mad at me for not being happy that he slapped my ass. He then harassed me for weeks for not being happy about that.
